Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester of study: 6.
Level of study: I.
Prerequisites:
Conditions for passing the subject: Two tests will be written during the semester, each with a score of 20 points. The course will end with a written examination, for which the students can obtain 60 points. At least 90 points are required for grade A, 80 points for B, 70 points for C, 60 points for D, and a minimum of 50 points for E.
Results of education: Students, having successfully accomplished this course, will be able to critically evaluate, assess and solve the most frequent problems in modern language teaching. They will be able to apply the techniques required for transferring foreign language knowledge and for developing language competencies. They will be able to construct a methodological model for developing all the language skills and will know how to integrate them in the process of language teaching.
Brief syllabus: The course will start with an introduction to the main models of foreign language teaching and will continue with a detailed analysis of the individual phases involved in these models. Students will become acquainted with various methods with which they can teach new grammatical structures, and they will evaluate and test the techniques with which they can expand the learners' vocabulary. The seminar will also discuss methods with which teachers can effectively ask questions and with which reading and listening skills can be effectively developed. Students will learn different assessment strategies, especially those for oral and written performances.
